

MPs FAIL TO REDUCE ABORTION TIME LIMIT

LIFE spokesperson, Joanne Hill, said:

“LIFE is dismayed that MPs have failed to respond to overwhelming public support for a tightening of the abortion law, and asks how can we, as a compassionate society, continue to allow the abortion of babies that we can see are fully human?”

For over thirty-seven years, LIFE has counselled thousands of women who have suffered harm and regret as a result of their choice to abort. Given that no woman wants an abortion, and that most people in Britain think that there are too many, surely we have a responsibility to give hope by taking the crisis out of crisis pregnancy. If MPs had voted to change the law to protect, inform and support, our society could have helped empower women to make a better choice than abortion.”
